Video 5 Skill Sheet - Flute Fingering Chart and Note Exercises

A Fingering Chart is a picture of which keys your fingers press for different notes. Here's what the symbols on the Fingering Chart mean:

The circular keys
on your left hand →

The thumb keys
on your left hand →

← The keys on your right hand.

(The circles are your circular keys, and the odd shape on the end is your pinky key.)

Notice! You don't need to use your left pinky yet. It will just hover over its key, and not press anything for a while.

Your First Fingering Chart

Here are the first notes you'll learn in band. To play each note, push down the keys that are colored in, and don't press the ones that are left blank.

Exercises:

1. The Note-Playing Process

- Find a note you'd like to play on the fingering chart. (I recommend starting with F, G, or A.)
- If a key is colored in on the fingering chart, press it down.
- If a key is white, don't press it. Just hover your finger over it.
- Keeping your fingers in position, form a good embouchure, and blow.
- Repeat this process until you've learned several notes!

2. Back and Forth

- Choose two notes that you've learned.
- See if you can play them one after the other, again and again. For example: F, G, F, G, F, G, F, G.
- Do this several times on as many different pairs of notes as you can.

3. Memory

- After you have a good idea of what each fingering is, pick one and study it carefully.
- Now, turn your fingering chart over and see if you can finger that note on your flute without looking.
- Once you've memorized one note, repeat the process to memorize the other notes.
- Can you have at least 5 notes memorized by our first rehearsal?

4. Create Your Own Song

- Using the notes you know, create your own short song.
- After you play the song, see if you can say the note names you used in order.
- Do this as often as you can. You may even want to try playing songs for your family and friends!

Practice Chart

Each time you do one of the exercises above, check it off below. The more checks you get, the better you'll become at playing flute.
